(PDF) The Ecumenical Imperative and the Kingdom of God

the ecumenical imperative and formation of ecumenical consciousness among pastoral workers Christians and parishes must see and respond to the ecumenical imperative, which is no less important now than it was in Dietrich Bonhoeffer's day, at Vatican II, or during the papacy of Pope John Paul II. To be sure, ecumenism is a fool's errand, but only because it is rooted in the foolishness of the cross. ...

the ecumenical imperative and formation of ecumenical consciousness among pastoral workers Five Ecumenical Imperatives. Catholics and Lutherans realize that they and the communities in which they live out their faith belong to the one body of Christ. The awareness is dawning on Lutherans and Catholics that the struggle of the sixteenth century is over. The reasons for mutually condemning each other's faith have fallen by the wayside.
